【解答例】

〔1〕

（問 1）

- He can access his calendar on all of his devices.
- The app reminds him of his appointments.

（問 2）

- It's very easy to see, so when he wakes up, he knows exactly what he needs to do.
- The physical act of writing his appointments helps him to remember on his own.

（問 3）

（解答例 1） I would prefer a paper calendar. Writing down my schedule and notes is, for me, much quicker than taking out my phone and typing. I may also get distracted and use TikTok instead of using my calendar app. In that sense, I prefer James's wall calendar to Nick's Apple Calendar. (50 words)

（解答例 2） I would prefer using an app. Like Nick, I like how it reminds me of my appointments and how I can access my calendar on either my phone or computer. Another reason I prefer an app is that we can share calendars. For example, my homework assignments appear on my calendar because my teacher schedules them on a Google calendar which I also access. (64 words)

（解答例 3） When at home, I would prefer to have a big wall calendar. That would give me a really good overview of my schedule. However, when I am on the move, I would prefer to use a calendar app on my phone rather than a diary. That would make it easy to quickly check my schedule when I don't have a bag to carry a diary in. 〔2〕

(問1)

(ア)	(イ)	(ウ)	(エ)	(オ)
4	2	3	1	5

(問2) At this rate we are not doing enough to avoid a disastrous future.

(問3)

- Spraying sulfur dioxide in the sky
- Installing large mirrors in space
- Making clouds reflect sunlight

(問4)

Removing CO₂ from the sky

(問5)

It might make people think that we don't have to decrease carbon dioxide because we can just rely on geoengineering.

(問6)

(解答例1) I would recommend the method of removing CO₂ from the air by planting trees. This seems not so difficult and even enjoyable for us. It will not cause severe side effects. We, however, need more time, so we have to encourage a lot of children to be strongly interested in this problem and inspire them to plant many more trees and plants. Small children could even plant vegetables in the schoolyard. (71 words)

(解答例2) I recommend removing CO₂ from the air by planting trees and, at the same time, storing CO₂ emissions from factories deep underground. These solutions seem more realistic and also less harmful to our planet. They may not be able to completely solve the problem; however, they may give us time to develop other geoengineering solutions or new clean sources of energy. (61 words)

(解答例 1) I'd really like to take part in the two-week language learning program in Australia, and I need your help. I really need to go for a study abroad program now because my teacher told me that my experience will be especially useful after I come back. I want to do well at university, and I think this experience would give me confidence and stronger motivation to study English in university. Also, my university offers a one-year study-abroad program in Canberra, which is funded by the university. If I go on this two-week program now, I'm positive that I would learn a lot more in the one-year program, because I would have gotten used to Australian English. (116 words)

(解答例 2) I will pay for the program as much as I can with the money that I earned at my part-time job, but I was hoping you could pay the rest. I think it would be a very good educational experience for me. Of course, it would help me to improve my English. In addition to that, I would learn different ways of looking at things by experiencing another culture. Finally, staying in another country would give me a lot of confidence. I think all of these things would help me to be successful in my future career. By being successful in my future career, I hope to make you proud. (110 words)

(解答例 3)

Dear Dad,

I hope your leg is feeling better. Actually . . . I'm writing this email because I need a little financial help.

My English studies are going well, but I feel I have hit a wall. So, I am really interested in a two-week language program in Australia that the university is offering. I would be staying with a family for the two weeks, so I would be interacting in English with them every day. Also, there are language and culture classes during the day, taught in English.

I have saved enough money for the program, but I do not have enough to pay for the plane ticket. Could you possibly help out with that? (117 words)

(解答例 4)

I have a strong hope to be an English teacher in the future. I, however, do not have enough ability and courage to speak English in front of many students. Improving my English skill is required, and communicating with many English native speakers is very important for me. In Japanese classrooms, there are few opportunities to talk with any English natives. I have one more important reason for wanting to go to Australia. As you know, I am an animal lover and am interested in animal protection. Seeing many koalas being rescued from forest fires has inspired me to get involved in this field of work. Australia is the best place for me to further my studies in this area. (120 words)
